Skirted dovetail sight #RS-DRU-CT
 This rear sight has a concealed dovetail under a front and rear skirt. It will hide a rough looking slot on a 13/16" or 7/8" octagon barrel. The dovetail is about .385" as cast, it will clean up to a standard .375" dovetail. The base is .550" wide.
#RS-DRU-CT Skirted dovetail sight only $7.99

Snake finial rear sight..... #RS-A-39
 Wax cast steel, not polished, this sight is essentially identical to our #RS-LB-14 and 16 except that it has a snake finial at front. Early American folk-art, it may have symbolized lethal accuracy. The dovetail is 1" long by .539" wide for 7/8" and .590" for 1". Dovetail to a depth of .050". File the front edge to fit your slot.
#RS-A-39 Snake finial rear sight only $10.99

Low flint longrifle sight..... #RS-LLB-14 or 16
 Original longrifles were nearly always fitted with "fine" (low) sights, in the mistaken belief that the low sights reduced sighting error. Too low for good target work, use it to restore or replicate an original antique rifle. Wax cast with a 1" dovetail, about .535" wide for use on a 13/16 to 7/8" or .585" wide on a 15/16" or 1" barrel. Dovetail to a depth of .050", the blade will stand .23" above the plane of the barrel.
#RS-LLB-14 Low rise rear sight for 7/8" only $7.99
#RS-LLB-16 Low rise rear sight for 1" only $7.99

Poor Boy rear sight #RS-TOW-1
 Wax cast steel, this sight is made in the U.S.A. from patterns made by the famous rifle maker, Mr. Louis Smith of Johnson City, Tennessee. Semi-buckhorn style, with a flat surface over the notch area. The dovetail is .640" wide, .630" long, with a simple thumbnail finial.
#RS-TOW-1 Poor Boy rear sight only $7.99

Flint longrifle rear sight #RS-LB-14 or 16
 A crisp wax casting, not polished, this steel rear sight has an extra long base that may be trimmed to fit an over-sized dovetail, up to 1" length. The sight blade tilt minimizes mirage and glare. The dovetail is 1" long by .539" wide for 7/8" and .590" for 1". Dovetail to a depth of .050". File the front edge to fit your slot.
